Special Lecture on 'Vivekananda: A New Vision'

Vivekananda is a seminal figure of the global nineteenth-century, but the pattern of his fame does not match his influence. Here he is a household name, but in the west few have heard of him. Why this is so goes to the heart of his life, his ideas, and his programme. I want to explain why he both challenged and enticed so many different audiences, from respectable New Englanders to Swadeshi activists. Rather than reinforcing the tired vision of Vivekananda as the first to unlock eastern spirituality for a materialist west, I want to focus on the paradoxes and uncertainties of his teachings. I will also investigate his relationship to nationalism, anti-colonialism, and Karma yoga. However, I will reinterpret his impact by integrating the "Indian Vivekananda" with the "global guru" by reconsidering his relationship to women, global intellectual history, and universalism in the fin-de-siècle world.

The foundation has expanded their focus from farmer livelihood development in India by promoting renewable energy solutions, organic farming practices and farmer producer organizations using regenerative agriculture promotion, to upskilling and capacity building, empirical research, policy advocacy and dissemination of information.

Mr. Clement Kerketta and Mr. Pratitpaban Mukherjee ,speakers , of the seminar , gave presentations, whereby emphasis was given about the transition to green technology and energy being the crucial need of the hour.

Students of 3rd Year participated in large numbers in the seminar. Different topics were chosen that included concepts of renewable energy resources, pollution control, soil remediation, waste management, circular economy, electric mobility etc. The students were subdivided into groups, whereby they were asked to describe the problems of the environment and their solutions. They presented innovative and eco-friendly business ideas solutions for the varied environmental problems. The seminar motivated the students and enabled them to present enthusiastic ideas about the solutions to existing problems.

Postgraduate and Research Department of Physics organised "8th Fr. Verstraeten memorial Lecture".

The Postgraduate and Research Department of Physics is known for its captivating and engrossing lectures and talks. In keeping with this tradition the 8th Fr. Verstraeten Memorial Lecture was conducted on 9th February, 2023, at the Fr. Depelchin Auditorium, from 3pm onwards. Professor Gayatri Banerjee, was our host for this event. The lecture was inaugurated and the inaugural address was delivered by Father Principal, Rev. Dr. Dominic Savio, SJ. It was followed by a speech from Dr. Indranath Chaudhuri, Head, Department of Physics. Dr. Shibaji

Banerjee, introduced our esteemed speaker, Br. Guy Consolmagno, SJ, Director of the Vatican Observatory and the Pope's Astronomer, who joined us via a Zoom call. Br. Guy Consolmagno was felicitated, albeit virtually, by Father Principal and the Department of Physics. The topic for this lecture, "What's surfacing on Beenu?", was a gripping and compelling one. The NASA mission to asteroid Beenu, OSIRIS-Rex, brought back samples from its surfaces, which are being tested to understand and determine the composition and properties of the asteroid. Furthermore, he went on to explain the different types of asteroids, meteorites in space, and their properties and compositions. The detection of asteroids and the detailed study of their samples was a particularly engrossing topic. Br. Guy Consolmagno even spoke about the various missions to different asteroids and the threats these asteroids may pose to Earth. Our esteemed speaker broke down the complex topics into smaller, easier parts, which could be understood by one and all. The lecture was followed by an enthralling QnA session conducted by Dr. Suparna Roychowdhury. Many inquisitive students and even professors asked their questions which our speaker, very kindly, answered. The vote of thanks was given by Dr. Subhankar Ghosh. Refreshments and beverages were distributed at the end of the lecture.

Title: What's Surfacing About Bennu?
 The recent NASA mission to asteroid Bennu, OSIRIS-REx, is bringing back samples gathered on its surface. But while in orbit around the asteroid it discovered that its surface is covered with boulders, but it absorbs heat like a powder. What's going on and how did it get that way? Our measurements of the most likely analog meteorite type, CM carbonaceous chondrites, suggests a surprising answer.

ABSTRACT
Active Matter Systems are made of entities that self-propel by drawing energy from the environment. Fascinating spatio-temporal patterns are commonly exhibited by such systems. Typical examples include interesting clustering dynamics within a flock of birds in the sky or in a school of fish inside a sea. In this lecture I will discuss how simple mathematical models can reproduce, as well as help obtain understanding of, some interesting and complex pattern dynamics in these and other active matter systems. After discussing this general picture, I will present a set of new results that we have gathered for a model system. Within this model the movements of particles, in mixtures of active and passive species, are restricted by certain curved surfaces.

17-18 February 2023

Postgraduate & Research Department of Political Science organised "Sansad' 2023". Events on: Youth Parliament & Press Committee.
SANSAD '23: Manifesting the Democratic Spirit

Paksh, Vipaksh aur Nishpaksh. The saga of Indian democracy, unfurled and unleashed.

Drawing students to ‘Think. Analyze. Argue’ – the Postgraduate and Research Department of Political Science launched the fourth edition, yet more significantly, the first intercollege affair for her flagship exhibit: SANSAD. Following months of planning, motivating volunteers, wooing sponsors, and rallying participants, Sansad ’23 culminated in two simultaneous events: The Youth Parliament and the Press Committee, on the 17th and 18th of February, 2023. Aimed at cultivating the ‘the leaders of our tomorrows’, Sansad is a seamless enactment and pioneer in higher standards of government, opposition, and press interaction in the Indian polity. While the set agenda for Sansad ’23 was the deliberation upon ‘The Indian Law regarding Classification and Identification of Criminal Detainees and Convicts’ with reference to the Criminal Procedure (Identification) Act 2022, themes of the human rights, right to privacy, criminal investigation, punitive politics, and freedom of dissent, provided multi and inter-dimensional deliberations in proceedings. The days unwrapped before the presence of the entire departmental student body and faculty, with both internal and external delegates competing in the two events.

The proceedings were unveiled following an august inauguration ceremony, with the release of Politique 2022-2023, and addresses by the Vice-Principal of Arts and Science, Prof. da’ Silva and the Head of the department of Political Science, Prof. Dr. Jhumpa Mukherjee.

Delegates to the Youth Parliament evoked with tremendous vigor their portfolios; bringing needed character and resolve into parliamentary proceedings though the zero hour, question hour and speeches before the floor, on both days. The committee was distinguished in its mature delivery and mindful articulation of facts, figures, and certainly rhetoric. Deliberations went back-and-forth to give room to for though and retrospection. Though the agenda was never settled upon, the sheer charisma and conviction put on display the efforts and talents of the participants.

The fourth pillar of democracy was well represented in the Press Committee. In line with house policy, the press delegates each produced an opinion piece on the agenda, and corresponding beat articles on both days of parliamentary proceedings. The committee engaged in a separate debate on the motion of ‘Elon Musk’s takeover of Twitter is a step towards the Freedom of Speech on Social Media’, whereupon both proponents and opponents sparred through three engagements: a round robin, questioning session and the summation speech.

The distinct motives of the government, opposition and press came to forefront during heightened tensions of the press conferences. Personalities clashed to the amusement and cheer of the audience, with oration, drama, and theatrics, all at play. Yet these hostilities only bore competitive sportsmanship, with all animosity was forsaken, forgiven in fellowship during lunch and post-event greets.

The valedictory ceremony propelled participant anticipation and audience speculation; with the ultimate victors being the inspired Indian demos. Sansad serves as an exemplar of democratic discourse and civil virtues. Sabhasado sadan samapth hua! Sansad ’23 was concluded with heartfelt gratitude for the robust participants, lively audience, steadfast adjudicators, and the tireless organizing committee for the resounding success in celebrating democracy.

It was dreamt big, and so it was lived big.

Systematic discrimination in the field of education is a product of intersection of several socio-politico-economic elements like caste, class, gender, ethnicity, sexuality and disability. There is an urgent need for re-evaluation and research on what inclusivity in higher education means to those who are most affected by it.

TITLE: EINSTEIN'S BIGGEST BLUNDER?

Abstract: In 1917, Albert Einstein inserted a term called the cosmological constant into his theory of general relativity to predict a stationary universe. A decade later, when it became clear that our Universe was expanding, Einstein abandoned the constant, calling it the 'biggest blunder' of his life.

However, lately, Einstein's biggest blunder has made a dramatic comeback with scientists discovering an accelerating Universe some form of energy density counteracting gravity. So, is really the cosmological constant the mysterious 'dark energy' or is it something else? How can we hope to unravel this mystery?

Department of History (Raghabpur) organised The half-Day state level seminar on "Tides of Revolution; Revolts, Nationalism and Beyond in the colonial India".

REPORT ON THE HALF-DAY STATE LEVEL SEMINAR ORGANIZED BY THE DEPT OF HISTORY

Seminar Title- Tides of Revolution; Revolts, Nationalism and Beyond in the colonial India

Organized by – Department of History

Date of Seminar- 05/04/2023

Venue- Raghbapur Campus

Idea of the Seminar-

Throughout the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, Indian history saw the emergence of various movements majority of which contributed vehemently to the development of the anti-British struggle. In this year, on occasion of the 75th year of Indian independence, we can look back to some of the important revolts and movements as well as their various facets. The proposed seminar thus, tried to throw light on two such significant events in the history of India, both in the pre nationalist and national movement phase e.g. the revolt of 1857, and the Swadeshi movement. The speakers discussed different features of these movements and through these, we were able to pay our homage to those persons whose sacrifice and contribution enabled Indian people to develop their consciousness and fight for their own rights.

Below I provide the details of the speakers and their topics for presentation-

1. Dr. Manas Dutta, Assistant Prof., Department of History, Aliah University, Kolkata- The Great Revolt of 1857 and the Idea of Total War in India.
2. Dr. Mimasha Pandit, Assistant Prof., Department of History, Mankar College, Bardhaman- Performing Swadeshi: Practicing Everyday Nationalism in Bengal, 1905-1912

The subjects of the presentations were interesting, informative and extremely crucial for creating awareness about our past history of revolution. The topics were directly related to the syllabus of SEMESTERS IV and VI particularly. The discussion, I am hopeful, was enormously fruitful for the students. 15 students from three semesters participated as volunteers. Students were given two hours credits for participation and one extra hour credit for volunteers.

Students of three semesters have enthusiastically participated. Even some students from Bengali P.G also came to attend the lectures. Besides the professors of the History department, some professors of the Bengali and Political Science departments were also present in the seminar.

I am thankful to the revered Father Principal and Father Vice-Principal for their constant support and encouragement. I thank my fellow colleagues and students for their kind cooperation in making the seminar a success.

Article by Rev. Dr. Dominic Savio, Sj, Principal, St. Xavier's College (Autonomous), kolkata, was Published in Times of India (TOI) “Book Launch - Titled

"Transforming Our World Together towards Sustainable Development" edited by Rev. Dr. Dominic Savio, SJ, Principal, St. Xavier's College (Autonomous) Kolkata and President, St. Xavier's College (Calcutta) Alumni Association".

BOOK LAUNCH: A book co-authored by students and teachers of St Xavier's College (Autonomous) was launched on Friday. Transforming Our World Together Towards Sustainable Development is a compilation of articles dealing broadly with six different facets of transformation processes — "An Ode to Literary and Historical Contexts, Education and Media for Transformation, Security and Governance, Finance, International Trade and Economic Development, Gender and Social Transformation and Environment and Sustainability". State education minister Bratya Basu (centre) launched the book. The book has been edited by Rev. Father Dominic Savio (second from left), the principal of the college, and two professors, Saswati Chaudhuri (extreme right) and Samrat Roy (extreme left). "Father Savio conceptualised this idea at the Assembly of the International Association of Jesuit Universities. He invited scholars and academicians from his institute to ponder and write research articles that would lead to a sustainable transformation of the world in a collective manner," the college said in a statement. Father Jeyaraj Veluswamy, rector, (fourth from left) was also present at the event.
