23 March 2021	St. Xavier's College (Autonomous), Kolkata, Xaverian Theatrical Society shall pay tribute to the rhythm of this immortal soul by embracing it through various events online like elocution, dance, music, radio dramas followed by our beloved Prof. A. Sengupta, enlightening us about his novel based on Soumitra Chatterjee. Soumitra Chatterjee has indeed given us a touch of his rhythms through his works over poetry, elocution, theatre and films. He has been a personality larger than life. His work shall continue to live till eternity after him. "I often think to myself, life is but a rhythm. Life and death, day and night, happiness and grief, meeting and parting, just like the waves of the ocean that goes up and then down in a cycle. One is incapable of existing without the other." The event shall finally come to an end through a panel discussion where a discussion about the life and works of Chatterjee shall be upheld, discussed and appreciated.

The St. Xavier's College Alumni Association, in collaboration with the college, has opened a Covid help desk on the campus to help families who have tested positive, especially those from economically weaker sections.

Through this initiative arrangement were made for hospital beds, safe homes, oxygen, ambulances, Covid tests, delivery of medicines, blood and plasma donations.

The volunteers managing the help desk arranged oxygen concentrators, oxygen cylinders, pulse oximeters, PPE kits, hand sanitisers and other essential commodities and provide the items to those unable to procure them.

Father Dominic Savio, the principal of the college and the president of the alumni association, said: "We cannot remain quiet in this difficult situation and will have to engage ourselves in extending these services, as the main principle of our (Jesuit) education system is to act as men and women for others and this is the time to prove it."

The help desk “SXCCAA Help” initiative included helping people get hospital beds, safe homes, ambulances, Covid tests, oxygen, delivery of medicines, blood and plasma donations.

Sanjib Koner, the honorary secretary of the alumni association, said they received a great numbers of calls from people seeking help.

“We had internally circulated the number among our members and others who have engaged in humanitarian drives previously. So many calls in a day shows how serious the situation is,” Koner said.

He said the family members of the patients are going to the Park Street campus to receive the aid. “If the situation demands delivery at their doorsteps, our volunteers will do that,” he said. For now, deliveries will be restricted to the vicinity of the college.

An appeal from Father Savio was sent to all our alumni in India and abroad. A coordinated and comprehensive initiative called SXCCAA Help Lifetime Lifeline project was planned.

“We need a lot of resources so that we can help as many as possible. Since economic activities have been restricted as a precaution against Covid, the financial distress is increasing among families. The poor are not in a position to bear the medical expenses,” Father Savio said.

He said they were also working on a plan to turn the college’s Raghobpur campus into an isolation centre for the college students and their families who test positive for Covid. “We have plans to open the isolation centre to outsiders as well, later,” Father Savio said.

A member of the alumni association said that other help would also be extended to people from marginalised communities. “Orphanages and old age homes, to a large extent, depend on donations from benevolent individuals. But the financial distress amid the pandemic is preventing many from contributing. We want to help them at the critical juncture,” he said.

'De-stressing through Yoga and Meditation'
Accompanying the young during the pandemic

The 21st day of June is observed as International Day of Yoga all over the world. With the current pandemic spreading its tentacles deep and swift into our daily lives and the rising stress due to studies, examinations, jobs, relationships etc., people in all walks of life have been experiencing a feeling of deep anxiety. Therefore, it has become even more important to embrace and adopt yoga and meditation to ensure a positive lifestyle. On this occasion, the NSS at St. Xavier's College organized a session on 'De-stressing through Yoga and Meditation' – Accompanying the young during the pandemic.

Mr. Adwitio Sengupta, a 2011 pass out and a trained yoga specialist was the resource person. He started the interactive session by asking the students about reasons for stress their lives. The response from the students ranged from exams, jobs, to relationships and pressure to be successful. He then explained that none can evade stressful situations in life, but one can train one's mind on how to respond to such situations. That training of mind is what yoga and meditation was all about. He went on to explain the various benefits and methods of yoga that can be used to de-stress in the current pandemic situation. He made the session interesting by citing examples from his own life and how he dealt with it.

Towards the end of the session, Mr. Sengupta along with Saptarshi Basu, (NSS student Board member and a semester IV student of commerce from Raghobpur campus) demonstrated some simple techniques to fight stress. More than 70 students (from both

	campuses) participated in this session. All their queries were answered by Mr. Sengupta with precision and demonstration in the Q&amp;A session. This helped the participants to understand how yoga and meditation can help in the present stressful situation.
