

'The opportunities and challenges of UK-Indian relations since Brexit: from high-tech to free trade agreements'

Professor Adam Fagan
Vice President
(Education & Student Success)
Professor of European Politics
King's College London, UK

ABOUT THE LECTURE

Professor Adam Fagan will deliver a lecture on 'The opportunities and challenges of UK-Indian relations since Brexit: from high-tech to free trade agreements.' The lecture will explore the evolving dynamics between the UK and India in the post-Brexit era, focusing on areas such as high-tech collaboration and the negotiation of free trade agreements. Attendees can expect insights into the shifting landscape of this bilateral relationship, encompassing both opportunities and obstacles faced by the two nations.

ABOUT THE SPEAKER

Adam Fagan has been at the forefront of education transformation at King's as Vice-Dean (Education) for the Faculty of Social Sciences & Public Policy. He has taken a central role on Portfolio Simplification within the Faculty and led both the King's First Year initiative, which brings together professional services and academic staff who are working to create a distinctive experience for King's first-year students, and the development of the new Graduate Teaching Assistant framework.

Adam is particularly passionate about capturing the student voice and ensuring the best possible support and experience for all our undergraduate and postgraduate students.

Adam joined the Department of Political Economy in 2019 as Professor of European Politics, as well as Vice-Dean (Education) for the Faculty of Social Science and Public Policy. From August 2021 he took on the role of Interim Vice President (Education). Prior to joining King's, Adam held a Chair at Queen Mary University of London, where he was also Head of the School of Politics and International Relations.

Thursday
22nd February, 2024
at 12 Noon

Venue: Room # 15

Attendees
MA Political Science
students