

Public Policy and Governance in India

1. Knowledge:

- Describe the concept of decentralization and governmentality in the context of public policy and governance in India.
- Explain the impact of the Green Revolution and Mondal Commission on agricultural policies in India.
- Analyze the key principles of governance in India and the role of government in addressing public issues.
- Evaluate the effects of globalisation and neo-liberalism on public policy and governance in India.
- Identify the role of citizens and other actors in promoting good governance practices in India.

2. Comprehension:

- Compare and contrast different approaches to poverty alleviation in urban and rural areas in India.
- Examine the challenges and controversies surrounding urban housing and transportation policies in India.
- Explain the significance of rural development and the role of Panchayati Raj institutions in local governance.
- Interpret the impact of various public policies on different sections of society in India.

3. Application:

- Develop strategies for effective analysis of public policy issues in India.
- Propose solutions for improving governance practices in urban and rural areas.
- Evaluate the outcomes of government initiatives in poverty alleviation and rural development.
- Discuss the role of citizen engagement and participation in shaping public policies and governance practices in India.

4. Analysis:

- Critically analyze the factors influencing decision-making processes in public policy formulation in India.
- Evaluate the effectiveness of government interventions in addressing social and economic inequalities.
- Assess the implications of globalisation and neo-liberalism on public service delivery and governance in India.
- Examine the challenges and opportunities in implementing decentralization policies in India.

5. Evaluation:

- Assess the impact of public policies on the overall well-being of citizens in India.
- Evaluate the effectiveness of governance structures and mechanisms in addressing public issues.
- Critically evaluate the role of various stakeholders in shaping public policy outcomes in India.
- Recommend improvements for enhancing transparency, accountability, and efficiency in public governance in India.

Select Language ▼

Powered by  Google Translate

